

TROPICAL PLANTS

TOUR

2026

Ecuador's privileged geographic location has positioned it as one of the most biodiverse countries worldwide. Its territory ranges from stunning coastal regions with inviting beaches ideal for relaxing vacations, ascending to altitudes exceeding 4,000 meters in the Andes mountains. Crossing this majestic mountain range leads travelers to the Amazon Basin, a region abundant with diverse flora and fauna awaiting exploration. Ecuador is home to approximately 1,660 bird species, countless vibrant insects, and around 4,400 orchid species described scientifically. Additionally, the presence of 16 distinct ethnic groups enhances the travel experience through remarkable cultural diversity.

TRAVEL RECOMMENDATIONS AND PRACTICAL INFORMATION

Visa Requirements:

Visitors from most countries do not require a visa to enter Ecuador, with the exception of nationals from the following countries: Nigeria, Nepal, Pakistan, Somalia, China, Bangladesh, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Kenya. A passport valid for at least six months beyond your date of entry is mandatory for all travelers.

Currency Information:

The official currency in Ecuador is the US Dollar (USD). Currency exchange facilities are available at international airports. We recommend traveling with a combination of cash (USD) and credit cards. Note that traveler's checks are not accepted.

Climate and Clothing Recommendations:

We advise travelers to be prepared for significant climate variations. The tour includes areas with high-altitude chill in the Andes and the warm, humid conditions of the Amazon Basin. Ecuadorian weather can be highly unpredictable, shifting from sunny to rainy within minutes. Layered clothing and waterproof gear are strongly recommended.

Important Notice:
In compliance with Ecuador's Ministry of Environment
regulations, collection
or extraction of flora and fauna from natural habitats (including
